

Imagining the Future Celebrating the Past

AAIDD Annual Conference
June 8-11, 2010
Providence, Rhode Island

Network with AAIDD Colleagues in June

As a professional working to support individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities, meeting with your colleagues provides you with the opportunity to exchange ideas as you discuss recent developments in the field. That's why you're invited to attend the American Association on Intellectual and Developmental Disabilities' (AAIDD) 134th Annual Meeting June 8 -11th in Providence, Rhode Island.

IMPORTANT LINKS:

Hotel Information

Click here to make your reservation online now!

Registration

register now!

Join your fellow educators, physicians, therapists, researchers and more as you explore such issues as:

An overview of the 11th Edition of Intellectual Disability presented by members of the AAIDD Terminology and Classification Committee, also authors of the 11th edition of the AAIDD definition manual.

Future directions for adolescents & adults with autism presented by educators from Vanderbilt and Lehigh University.

How to develop accessible Web sites for people with intellectual disabilities.

Two full days of sessions revolve around the latest in health & wellness, gerontology, self-advocacy, independent living and more. AAIDD/NADD members who sign up before May 21 save $24.00. Click here to register now.

Attend Your Choice of Post Conference Workshops at No Additional Cost

When you register for the conference, you also enjoy free attendance at any of the three Post Conference Workshops. That's a savings of $99.00 for a full-day session. CE credits are also available for a nominal $10.00/per workshop. See what's offered here.

Plus, the Annual Meeting - entitled, Imagining the Future, Celebrating the Past - will host a special tribute to the contributions of Senator Edward Kennedy & Eunice Kennedy Shriver.

Don't miss this opportunity to network with your ID colleagues and discuss key issues in the field. Register today simply by clicking here

